Proceedings of the National Board of Trade

PHILADELPHIA June 18—At the session of the national board of trade this afternoon the following with relation to the centennial exposition was unanimously adopted

Resolved, That as a body we feel an unhesitating conviction that the success of the enterprise is already assured, and commend the furtherance of the work to the pride and patriotism of our fellow citizens in every section of our country

The committee on transportation submitted the following

WHEREAS, Certain defects exist in our system of transportation which are an unnecessary burden on commercial interests and also upon every producer and consumer and

WHEREAS, Prominent among these are the construction of railways mainly by the proceeds of bonds without full payment of stock subscribed the watering of stock on prosperous roads to afford a plausible pretext for imposing on the public an oppressive tariff of charges combinations between parallel lines for the same purpose the division of the legitimate work of railways among various sub companies such as fast freight express sleeping and palace car lines, the existence of bridge rings and other similar devices in which railway managers are interested and which deplete the revenues which legitimately belong to stockholders together with other and greater defects which affect the public interest. Therefore

Resolved That the subject of transportation having assumed a most important bearing on the welfare of both our internal and foreign commerce should receive the earnest consideration of legislators, both State and national, to the end that substantial justice be done, both to capital which has been honestly invested in our transportation system, and also to the public

Resolved That where transportation lines are located exclusively within the limits of a State they should be regulated by State legislation but where they are engaged in inter State commerce it is the duty of the national government to prescribe and enforce such regulations as will insure substantial justice to all concerned

Resolved That there exists a lamentable lack of reliable data on which to base legislation at this time, and we therefore urge on congress the establishment of a department or bureau whose special business shall be to collect and disseminate information bearing on our great national commerce which is now estimated to exceed in amount our foreign commerce in a ratio of twelve to one We also recommend to the attention of the various States the importance of collecting reliable information on which to base their local legislation upon this great question

Resolved That experience has shown that the attempt to regulate details of railroad management is inexpedient but that certain laws of a general character should be enacted which are both practicable and necessary for the protection of public interest. Among these primarily is an amendment to the general railway law of different states so as to prohibit the issue of stock which is not paid for, and the increase of capital stock except for definite and specified extension or improvement The issue of stock to represent surplus earnings that have been collected from the public should be absolutely prohibited

Second—A uniform system for keeping the accounts of transportation companies should be established in all the States which will enable correct judgment to be formed of their condition

Third—A uniform classification of various articles of merchandise should be made in all the States

Fourth—A uniform system of publishing or posting at every shipping point a schedule of rates and fares embracing all particulars regarding distance classification special tariff etc and prohibiting increase of such rates above published limits without at least thirty days' notice

Fifth—Requiring railway companies to receipt for quantity and to deliver the same at its destination

EARTHQUAKES ON THE LOYALTY ISLANDS

The following information has been supplied by one of the missionaries on Lifu one of the Loyalty Islands, Polynesia "We have passed through the hurricane season with comparatively quiet weather, no storm of any consequence when on Sunday night last (March 28) at a quarter to 11 o clock, we were all aroused and alarmed by a very sharp earthquake, such a one as we had never felt before It lasted some time We had several slighter ones during the night The next day we had occasional shocks some rather sharp The next night we had only a slight one so we hoped they were over, when on Tuesday evening, March 30th, we were visited by a frightful earthquake which frightened us all It did not last so long as the others but it was much more severe Part of the walls in the nursery (lath and plaster) came down with a crash Many parts of the wall were cracked, and we got such a fright that we removed to a new native hut, where we feel more comfortable than in the shaky house To day, April 1st, we had sad news from Rev Mr Sleigh s side of the island After the earthquake on Saturday night a great tidal wave swept away three villages We are not sure how many lives are lost A trader from there tells us twenty four, and others so much injured bruised, etc that they also may die Our church which was well built at Wide Bay, by the French, is badly crushed at one end We have counted thirty two earthquakes since Sunday 28th of March Numbers of the drowned were children Their fathers were absent from home at their plantations The sudden inrush of the sea cleared out stone walls All fires were put out It was pitch dark mothers groped about in vain for their babes There was great distress, men and women were drowned although the natives are such excellent swimmers The poor people on this side of the island where the Rev Mr Sleigh resides have lost everything

THE PRESIDENT'S VIEWS ON SHERMAN'S BOOK.—Washington June 1—The President said to [illegible] that he had been reading the book of General Sherman with much interest and he thought it was a very good book So far as he had progressed in the reading he did not think the work was openly subject to as much criticism as he had expected from what he had heard of it There were a great many statements in it which no doubt appeared extraordinary but the portions of the book which he had perused did not exhibit as many inaccuracies as he had looked for There were no doubt a great many people who would assume to give different versions of the events narrated by General Sherman and this was naturally to be expected as a work of the kind was certain to tread upon some one's toes The President of course reserves his opinion of the work, as a whole until he has finished its perusal but the favorable manner in which he now speaks of it will be somewhat of a surprise to those who have imagined that he would feel personally aggrieved by some of its comments The fact seems to be that the President is convinced that it is beyond the power of General Sherman or any one else to take from him the laurels with which he has been decked —Cor Baltimore Sun

VICTORIA'S PRIVATE CHARACTER

Those who have seen Queen Victoria of late years have beheld a very plain lady with a very red face that heavy face of the Georges and a short dumpy figure Her only beauty is a very small exquisite white hand It is a peculiarity of her family The uncles had it eminently Her manners are very dignified and even give her height She wears her great rank worthily in this respect knowing to the last shadow of a shade just how much affability to show The rumored disaffection of the Queen with the Prince of Wales was probably true She however melted towards him motherlike during his illness and watched by him and prayed for him tenderly She credits his lady friends—these fast women of England who have brought him into disrepute Her Court has ever been one of the severest morality until the Prince began his flirtations The very popular and good little Princess of Wales is an immense favorite, and often it is said intercedes for her mighty spouse with the Queen which is certainly very pretty and noble of her to do The Queen, as an authoress has not added much to the literary reputation of her family Perhaps some sponging censor went over the books and wiped out all individuality She never says a clever thing if we may judge of her by her books but they speak loudly from her heart They are pure and sweet pictures of domestic happiness, love of nature and soft and womanly affection One lady of high rank in England told me that the Queen always bowed and kissed her hand to her children She is remarkably fond of her children, and takes considerable notice of them Among her accomplishments she numbers the possession of five languages all of which she speaks fluently except Latin the faculty of painting in water colors and some cleverness at modeling in clay She has acquired some knowledge of Indian dialects finding it necessary from her possessions in conquered India her reading is vast and various as we learn by her books and by her occasional letters to the authors Yet with all her culture, she cannot be called an intellectual woman she has no genius unless it be for domestic affairs Probably in a less exalted station she would have been a very good and frugal housekeeper She has certainly kept her large and various household in good order so far—Appleton's Journal

JEFF DAVIS ONCE MORE

The Shreveport (La) Times gives a synopsis of Jefferson Davis remarks at Marshall Texas and says that his words were in the interest of peace, brave and manly, and honorable to him honorable to his people and should command the respect of men in every section of the Union He advised the Southern people to labor for the honor and glory of the American Government it is their Government they and their ancestors fought for it and did as much as any other section to make it a great Government He spoke of the welcome the people had given him, broken, as he was, in fortune and health, and with no power to serve them and no patronage to bestow Other people he said had abandoned their leaders in adversity and heaped contumely on them in failure, but he had met with different treatment from the people of the South, they had never turned their backs upon him, but had stood by him steadfast in success and in adversity Several times the Times says the pathos of the illustrious speaker moved many to tears of deep emotion

The same account contains the following, "charming incident as it is called On the return trip there were two beautiful young ladies on the train, who, when they were introduced to the Confederate chief kissed his hand, and the grand old man, with princely courtesy, bowed low, and with lips which had spoken words of stern command amid the fire of battle which had thrilled and swayed Senates, dictated the policies of States and marshaled the hosts of the Confederacy to a conflict which startled and astonished the world, touched the soft white hands that lay like snow drops in his own, while to the fair ones' cheeks, the blush roses stole and mingled with the lilies there The struggle of life is fierce and to those who are leaders of States and Kingdoms, too often bitter, yet when woman bestows the kiss of gratitude and reverence upon the hero's hand, scarred though he be by war broken by cares of State and increasing years, calumniated by malice and cowardice, in that hallowed moment he feels the strife, the labor, the sacrifice, was not without a sweet and holy recompense"

PATHETIC INCIDENTS.—Among the many pathetic incidents of the Holyoke calamity was the fate of the young lady organist of the church Amminus Menier, and her lover The latter was once safely outside the burning church, but, finding that his betrothed had not escaped, he rushed in to save her and both perished One physician was called upon to attend on three cases of miscarriage, brought on by the violent alarm of the unfortunate ladies One of the most protracted cases of suffering was that of Mary Desjardin, who, burned to a crisp and blind past all recognition, somehow found her way to the hill north of the church and wandered around there about twenty minutes, probably before she was found and taken to her home on the North Flat where she died about 11 o clock, Friday morning having lingered fifteen hours in fearful agony Her sister Lilian also died, Friday forenoon, at the Home of Providence whither she was taken, Thursday at midnight Mrs Desjardin their mother who was burned in the church, had taken all the money of the family with her and of course it was entirely lost Of this large and very poor family, there are several quite small children and one married daughter now left

A CHILD SHUT UP AND FORGOTTEN.—A Norwich, Connecticut letter to the Hartford Times says "In the Greenville School District, some two weeks ago, one of the female teachers inflicted what has proved to be a terrible punishment on a little boy not yet five years old It seems he was detected in spitting on his slate, and the teacher shut him up in a room, locking him in When the school was dismissed for dinner he was forgotten The child s mother a poor widow compelled to work in the mill to support a large family missed the child and on inquiry found him locked up and in a state of imbecility He is still under the physician's care and with some hope of his ultimate recovery The mother of course, is obliged to give up work to watch over her child and beyond an apology from the teacher there does not seem to be anything done by the committee or anybody else toward aiding her in her difficulty

INTERNATIONAL DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE FOR THE CENTENNIAL

PORTLAND June 18 1875

As the centennial commissioners have held their last meeting previous to the opening of the great exhibition in 1876 and completed the plans and regulations by which the executive committee who now have the work in charge expect to make it a final success, we claim the co operation of such journals in this State as take an interest in having the products of Oregon occupy a creditable position beside those of her sister States in this grand display of the industrial resources of our nation in laying before our people such information as will enable them to arrange the exhibit of this State in such a manner as will insure its success

That the great agricultural interests of this nation should not be overslaughed by a show of minor importance to the people the commissioners have decided that agriculture and the products of the soil should be made one of the leading features of the exhibition The bureau of agriculture will therefore comprise the display of all kinds of live stock cereals fibers, textiles cultivated and native grasses all horticultural and pomological productions all productions of the forest both in a primary and secondary form cured meats fish and vegetables of every variety and in all stages of preservation together with the flora and fauna of every State so far as they can be obtained and classified

We have been assured of the voluntary assistance of the most skillful botanist florist and horticulturists to assist in classifying arranging, and properly preparing our articles in that department which may be sent from this State for exhibition and it will be through our own folly and neglect if our State fail to be well represented in this department of the grand national show

We shall make it our special business to answer all communications and inquiries relative to this important subject and also to impart such information as we may be able through the public press of the State

PUGET SOUND

THE GREAT LUMBERING INDUSTRIES—THE DEMAND INCREASES FASTER THAN THE PRODUCTION—COAL MINING PROSPECTS—RAPID INCREASE OF POPULATION—READY WORK AND GOOD WAGES—A GOOD OPENING FOR INDUSTRIOUS YOUNG MEN

SEATTLE, W T, June 16, 1875

The old promise still holds good, that summer and winter, seed time and harvest, would come in regular succession The warm summer weather, though later than usual, is now all that could be desired The Sound is now in its most attractive form for visitors and tourists The atmosphere is delightful, the scenery grand and travel cheap The fare from Tacoma to Victoria is only one dollar—formerly $5

The Sound is as attractive for its material advantages as it is for its charming climate and grand scenery

THE LUMBER TRADE AND COAL MINES OF THE SOUND

Never were so prosperous and profitable as at present. After careful examination, I ascertain there will be 220,000,000 feet of lumber and 100,000,000 laths made this year in the ten mills on the Sound The net profits on the lumber including sales by the cargo and retail sales from the yards in San Francisco, freights and sale of merchandise in the stores at the mills will amount to at least $1,000,000 of clear profit. Such is the increasing demand from San Francisco and California that the mills cannot fill the orders, although three-fourths of them are working night and day A favorable sample of these mills is

PORT BLAKELEY LUMBER MILL

It is located across the bay from Seattle. The bay is well adapted for shipping and the wharf for loading The mill is working night and day and makes 100,000 feet of lumber in 24 hours and 20,000 laths in 12 hours The most improved modern machinery is used, 95 men are employed that are paid from $30 to $75 a month, and board, according to their merits There are as many men employed in the logging camps as in the mill—making 190 men The company —Renton, Holmes & Co, own four vessels used in carrying lumber In their primitive shipyard, they have built a brig, three schooners, a barkentine and their fine tug boat Blakeley The activity in the lumber mills causes a considerable demand for men This has given an increased demand for labor and well accounts for the

LARGE IMMIGRATION TO THE SOUND

During the last few months, for so far, they all get employment almost as soon as they arrive, at work for which they are adapted, and at wages according to their worth There is a constant demand for steady, good men One cause of this is the large number of single men, known as " tramps, ' that will not settle down to steady, constant work, but as soon as they make a little raise, get uneasy and must be off to some other place Such men never come to anything There are now working in the lumber mills and logging camps on the Sound 2 000 men

THE COAL MINES OF THE SOUND

Are comparatively new and are just about being fairly developed their prospects are very bright The production of the Seattle mines is 400 tons a day by October it will be double that quantity There is demand at present in the San Francisco market for 1 000 tons a day If the first 20 miles of Seattle R R is completed this summer the production will be that quantity by November In the meantime there are at least 300 men employed in these mines Each steamer from California to Victoria brings from 100 to 250 immigrants a fair proportion of whom land at Seattle find their way to the mines and ready employment at fair wages and good board The total number of men employed at present in the lumber mills, logging camps and coal mines on the Sound number 3 200 and the pay roll to $57,600 a week or $230 400 a month

There is little doubt that the coal mines of this district will draw a large amount of capital from San Francisco to invest Mr O Brien of San Francisco was here a few weeks since and after examining the mines and the contemplated railroad left for home with a very favorable impression of both Mr Pope of the firm of Pope & Talbot San Francisco and owner of the Port Gamble lumber mills has just paid a similar visit with favorable results There is good ground to hope that the quantity and variety of coal available from the Sound and the Pacific coast generally will be sufficient in a reasonable time to supply the demand and put a stop to importations from foreign ports, such as England and Australia.

There is comfort and independence within the reach of every young man adapted to the wants of the Sound who is industrious and attentive, economical and trustworthy and of good habits generally, but gambling drinking, bad company and an aimless life, are the ruin of hundreds of men on the Sound, who might otherwise be good and useful members of society

SATURDAY MORNING, JUNE 19, 1875.

READ ALL THE FACTS AND BE JUST.

In the ring organ of yesterday morning appeared the following:

> When the great fire occurred in Chicago the people of the whole world extended aid to alleviate the wants and necessities of the sufferers; when the locusts invaded the States of Nebraska and Kansas, people everywhere contributed for the relief of the sufferers; but when a large portion of this city was destroyed, and the generous and humane people of other cities and countries proffered aid to the sufferers, we had capitalists and sharks who desired title to much property on which buildings had been burned, and the owners were unable to rebuild, who very promptly, in the name of our people, declined any aid, and none was received. This transferred the title to the real estate from the poor to the rich at a mere nominal price, and the rich grew richer; but a time has now arrived when a change can be made in official quarters, which will prevent the recurrence of such official outrage, and the people will certainly take advantage of the occasion and vote the Republican ticket on Monday next.

The charge having been thus sounded, an attack was made all along the lines by the street-corner politicians; and a few persons who suffered by the great conflagration of August 2, 1873, and thought the world ought to make up their losses to them, joined in the assault. So far as the curb-stone politicians are concerned, this is nothing but the baldest and most contemptible demagoging; but on the part of some of those who suffered, it may be safely assumed to be founded in an honest belief that they were ill used by those who declined to accept aid from abroad. To this latter class we wish to address a few facts, which, it appears to us, ought to be sufficient to satisfy them that there was no cause of complaint against Mayor Failing. We ask such persons to read these facts carefully and consider them candidly. We do not ask any person to accept our conclusions, if upon thorough examination of the case they do not appear to be correct and just; but we confidently expect that a candid consideration of the facts will convince every one who is willing to see the truth, that there is no ground for censure of Mayor Failing.

Fortunately — if anything connected with so great a calamity can be said to be fortunate—the fire occurred at a season of the year when, in this climate, there can be no suffering from cold. That made the matter of immediate relief less difficult than in the case of the burning of Chicago, which happened in cold weather. Still it was necessary that something be done in the way of providing food and shelter for the sufferers, and that it be done without waiting for the organization of some general plan of relief. On the afternoon of the day of the fire, while the ruins of the destroyed buildings were yet blazing, Mr. Failing took the initiative, and, calling a few public spirited citizens together at the Council Chamber, he arranged to have beds and food furnished at different places in the city to all who might need them. In addition to this, Mr. Failing went personally to different grocers and provision dealers in the city and directed that if any of the sufferers should want provisions they should be furnished and the bill sent to him. Posters were struck off and posted all over the city, notifying the sufferers where they could find food and shelter and lodging. Thus were the wants of the distressed people provided for the first night.

The next day a public meeting was held to consult as to ways and means for a more general and systematic plan of relief. The meeting was well attended, and a committee was appointed called a General Relief Committee, to inaugurate a plan of operations. The committee was composed of as good citizens, as kind hearted, as generous, as humane as could have been found in this or any other city. They were

On the following day a meeting of the general committee was held, when the burnt district was subdivided, and committees were appointed to ascertain the needs of the sufferers, as follows:

District No. 1, from Madison to Taylor street (four blocks), E. J. Northrup, R. Everding and W. Moffett. District No. 2, Taylor to Salmon street (three blocks), T. M. Richardson, E. Frank and H. H. Carpenter. District No. 3, from Salmon to Main street, including block No. 72 (four blocks), Lewis Love, J. W. Cook and W. S. Caldwell. District No. 4, Main to Madison street, west of Front street, and Madison to Jefferson street (five blocks), S. O. L. Potter, C. R. Hoffman and D. S. Stimson. District No. 6, from Jefferson to Clay street (five blocks), Chas. Hodge, John Campbell and J. P. O. Lownsdale.

Committees were also appointed to solicit subscriptions, viz.:

First Ward—R. R. Thompson, L. White and A. P. Ankeny. Second Ward—Sol. Hirsch, J. W. Cook and L. H. Wakefield. Third Ward—E. Corbett, C. W. Parrish and Chas. Holman.

Also a disbursing committee consisting of Hon. Philip Wasserman, Gen. E. B. Babbitt, Rev. T. L. Eliot, A. B. Hallock, Chas. Holman, T. M. Richardson and W. S. Caldwell.

These several committees pushed forward the work assigned to them, and in a few days the committee to ascertain who was needing assistance and to what extent, had thoroughly accomplished their work, and reported all persons in distress, with full particulars of each case and the address of each. The committee to solicit funds reported near $15,000 contributions.

In the meantime Mayor Failing had received from St. Louis, San Francisco and elsewhere offers of assistance to relieve suffering, and had in all cases responded returning the thanks of the people, and saying he would accept the aid if found necessary. These tenders were all reported to the general committee, Mr. Failing saying in a communication addressed to them on the subject:

> "It is my judgment that the appeal should first be made to our own citizens, hoping that all necessary assistance can be given here, without asking for aid from neighboring or Eastern cities. That, however, is left to your judgment, after an investigation of the number and necessities of the sufferers, and estimating the ability of our own people.
> "Tenders of aid have already been made by individuals in San Francisco and St. Louis, which are herewith submitted for your consideration."

After ascertaining all the facts in relation to the extent of distress, and the resources for relief that could be relied upon here at home, the general committee, whose names are given above, after discussion, unanimously adopted a resolution instructing the Mayor to decline the money offered from abroad. The resolution, with the preamble, was in the following language:

> "WHEREAS, The committee on disbursements deem the funds on hand, together with anticipated subscriptions of citizens whom the soliciting committee have not had an opportunity to see, also funds to be realized by concerts, sufficient to meet all immediate wants of sufferers by fire; therefore, be it
> "Resolved, That the Committee authorize and request his Honor, Mayor Failing, to decline, with our grateful thanks, the very generous offers of aid from abroad, our own citizens by their munificent donations having enabled us to relieve all present destitution and reasonable wants."

If there was any bad judgment in the premises it was on the part of the entire committee, whose names are a sufficient guaranty that they were not prompted by any improper motive. Mr. Failing had no more to do with the matter than any other member of the committee, though his position as Mayor of the city naturally made him the medium of communication with people abroad. So much for the actual responsibility in the case.

But we maintain that the action of the general committee was right in itself. There was never a dollar or a cent tendered by anybody abroad, to rebuild a house that had been burned. The offers were of means to relieve suffering, not to re-establish men in business; and it would have a reproach to our city and a wrong to the generous people who offered aid, to have appropriated it to any other purpose than that for which it was tendered. And for the purposes for which the offers were made, the furnishing of food and clothing and shelter and tools to those who had been thrown destitute upon the world by the sudden calamity, our own citizens made ample provision. Our people were able to relieve all such wants, and they did relieve all such, without a single exception. Mr. Failing himself contributed $1,000 to that object, and Mr. W. S. Ladd, who is branded by the Bulletin as a man unworthy to be trusted and an oppressor of the poor, gave $2,000. And besides this, our home capitalists offered every assistance in their power to enable the people whose buildings were burned, to rebuild.

It is worthy of remark that the man who is making most noise on the streets about this matter, received more assistance than any other, and received all he needed till he could get into work again.

More than was done for these truly unfortunate people could not be done, unless it had been undertaken to rebuild for them the houses that were consumed, which no reasonable person would expect.

The Bulletin's implied assertion that the money contributed to relieve the sufferers at Chicago was appropriated to rebuild the city, is utterly untrue. Never a cent was so used, as the printed report of the entire work of the relief organization of that city shows. A part of the money was used to put up temporary sheds—that is what the report calls them—in which the sufferers might sleep and take their meals till better places could be obtained for them; but with this exception every dollar went for food, clothing and tools—very little of the latter.

Rev. W. G. Eliot, of St. Louis, in a letter to the Merchant's Exchange of that city, in the following February, concerning the declining of aid from that city by Portland, said the "honorable pride" of the people of Portland had carried them through the trial, and added:

> Perhaps it may not be amiss to remind you that in this transaction Portland has taken precisely the same course which St. Louis took in the time of her great calamity, from a like cause, in 1849.

Nor will it be amiss at this time to remind our own people of the fact that the city of Boston, at the time of her great fire a year or two ago, did exactly the same thing.

In concluding, we desire to say that, though the attack which has made this full statement of the facts in the case necessary has arisen out of the desire of the Bulletin and its following to prevent Mr. Failing's re-election, we have written this reply more in the feeling that it is a deserved vindication of the conduct of Mr. Failing and the other honorable and benevolent men who co-operated with him in the work of humanity in which he led, against groundless, unjust and wicked accusations, than for the purpose of producing any effect on the election. If it shall have the effect of causing any of those who have cast aspersions on the conduct of these citizens to see the injustice they are doing, we shall be better pleased than we could be by any possible effect it might have on the election.

A SLIGHT DIFFERENCE OF OPINION.

We have never supposed the possession of wealth which had been acquired by honest effort was a crime. Indeed, it has been generally accepted in the communities where we have lived, as rather to the credit of a man that he had accumulated property by constant honest industry and judicious enterprise. We have supposed this rule to prevail here in Portland, where, above all places we ever knew, the wealthy men have acquired their wealth in that way. But it appears a different rule is to be set up here, and the owning of property is to be accounted a crime. Such is the standard of judgment erected by the Bulletin. It speaks of men who have earned some means and spent it in erecting brick buildings and otherwise improved the city and furnishing employment to laborers and mechanics, as common malefactors, who deserved to be disfranchised. Not so think the neighbors of the men thus traduced, who have lived in the same community with them since the old pioneer days, and have witnessed their honorable efforts, and rejoiced in their well-earned success. Not so think the hundreds of people of small means who have been accustomed for years to go to these prosperous citizens for material aid whenever they found themselves embarrassed, and have always found their hearts as warm as in the days when all were poor together, and their purse open to every reasonable call. Not so will say the hundreds who have been in various ways directly and indirectly the beneficiaries of the generosity of these fortunate citizens of Portland. The distinction of having discovered that a man who owns a brick building in Portland, or has stock in a bank, is necessarily a selfish and unprincipled extortioner, to be shunned in society and repudiated in all public matters belongs to the Portland Bulletin.

A DECISION ON TAXATION.

On last Wednesday the Supreme Court of the United States gave a decision of some general interest, on the subject of taxation of railway property. A suit in equity was brought in the United States Circuit Court, by a number of foreign stockholders in the Missouri Pacific Railway Company, to restrain the collection of local taxes levied in the city of St. Louis. It was claimed the road was exempt from local taxation under a law exempting the road from State taxation for a certain period. The complainants urged that this provision covered the whole subject of taxation, and that since it made no reservation of the right of local taxation, even after the expiration of the specified limitation, it must be construed as excluding all local taxation. This view was sustained by the Circuit Court, but the Supreme, on appeal, reversed the decision, holding that the special provision with relation to State taxation "did not prove an intentional abandonment of all but State taxes." It would be a hard rule to apply to State legislation, say the court, to hold that the circumstance of making special provision with relation to taxes due the State, nothing being said about other taxes, is an exemption of the property of the corporation from all taxes not levied for State purposes; and the court laid down the general rule that no law on such a subject can be regarded as a waiver by implication of a right not expressly mentioned.

A QUESTION OF SECURITY.

Of a piece with its shameless attacks on all those citizens of Portland who have been so fortunate as to acquire some property, is its admonition to the citizens to vote the ring ticket because the candidates on the People's ticket "give no security beyond their personal reputation" for their official conduct. Is not that security enough? Is the "personal reputation" of the gentlemen who have been nominated by the citizens' committee so trifling a matter as that? By what license does this anonymous carpet-bagger assert that men who occupy the highest positions in business circles in this city, have no integrity and self-respect which would make them honest officers, and no reputations they would not be ready to tarnish for the gains that might be made out of a corrupt administration of the city government? This thing of personal reputation may be a matter of small moment to the individuals who dictate these attacks, as men generally estimate reputations from the point of their own standing; but to all honorable and high-minded men the "personal reputation" of other honorable and high-minded men is, next to personal character, the highest and best security that can be given for their honorable conduct.

"The proof of the pudding is eating it." The citizens of Portland two years ago determined to ignore all political organizations in the selection of city officers. The declared object of that movement was retrenchment in city expenses and reduction of taxes. The result has been a reduction of nearly fifty per cent. The people's officers have done in good faith what they promised to do. If the people wish a continuation of this economical government, they can have it by supporting the People's ticket again. But if they want to return to the old extravagances and high taxes, they can do that by electing the ring ticket. It is simply a question of taxation. Elect the ring ticket, and your taxes will be doubled.

The ring organ urges the support of the ring ticket, on the ground that a ring victory now will secure the election of the Republican candidate for Congress next fall. That is either mere election clap-trap and means nothing, or else it means that there is a scheme on foot to use the city government in running the Congressional election in October. The cloven foot is plainly shown. The people of Portland, of all parties, are to be taxed to raise a corruption fund for the ring to use in electing a Congressman. The ring organ, in its indiscreet zeal, has "let the cat out of the bag." If, after this, the people of Portland should, through inattention, or otherwise, place it within the power of the ring to carry out this scheme they will have themselves to blame. "Forewarned is forearmed."

The past is a criterion by which to judge of the future. In the past the ascendancy of the ring in city government has been attended with high taxes, while under the administration of non-partisan officers the taxes have been low. It is reasonable to presume the same will be true in the future.

Oregon City Woolen Mills have narrowly escaped being burned again. We learn the fire this time originated in the machinery and their is no suspicion of incendiarism.

THE CAMPAIGN OPENED

The Headquarters of both political parties have again by common consent been established at ISAAC BLUM'S Store, which he has elegantly refitted to meet the requirements of the occasion. This place has become the recognized resort of connoisseurs, who pride themselves on the fact that they smoke Blum's Cigars and pay for them.

This card is published for the information of strangers. It is therefore well for visitors from various parts of the State and abroad, as well as San Francisco drummers and such like, to bear this in mind and act accordingly.

Parties desiring Imported Havanas or Key West Cigars by the box will please call before the present invoice is disposed of.

CITY.

REUNION.—The teachers, graduates, pupils and friends of the Portland Academy and Female Seminary, held their annual reunion at the academy last evening and considering the brief time in which the arrangements had to be perfected the affair was quite successful and proved a source of pleasure to all in attendance. The number present was an evidence of much interest in the school. The exercises were opened with a brief prayer by Dr Dillon, after which Miss Lambertson favored the audience with an instrumental solo which was well executed. Mr W F Wright of Union county, then delivered an oration of about 20 minutes length replete with excellent thoughts, clothed in words that were well chosen stirring up mournful but pleasing memories in the hearts of many of the audience. Although as the speaker remarked since leaving school the yard stick and ledger had been his portion yet his effort last night showed that had his attention been turned to more literary affairs he might have succeeded as well as he has in mercantile life. His oration was interesting throughout and was listened to with much attention. Miss Mary Lock read a well written essay and Mr D W Taylor and Miss Coombs gave recitations in a felicitous style. Miss Lamberison and a Miss Caples performed an instrumental duet, and the former sang that touching old pilgrim song "The breaking waves dashed high." A half hour was spent in social intercourse, and order being again restored, a number of short speeches were made by members of the Alumni association and others.

Prof. Royal and his estimable lady are making arduous efforts to keep up the reputation of the academy as one of the excellent institutions of learning in our city, and we are glad to know that their labors are crowned with marked success.

The chapel of the academy, on this occasion, was beautifully decorated and showed that fair hands had been busy in twining garlands of flowers to please the eyes of those who come together at least once a year to revive the memory of their happy, happy school days.

USEFUL PAMPHLETS.—Four thousand five hundred pamphlets giving information for the guidance of foreign vessels proceeding to Portland, have been issued under the instructions of the board of trade for general circulation. The pamphlet has been carefully compiled by Mr. William Reed, of the board of trade and contains a large amount of useful information concerning the commercial interests of Portland and the State at large. It contains 11 pages, and the printing is executed in a very creditable style of the art. Mr Reed informs us that 2,000 of these pamphlets will be distributed among the different marine insurance companies and underwriters of the world, also to all the chambers of commerce and shipping protection associations and public libraries in Europe. We are also informed that several of the shipping houses in Portland have each purchased 500 copies which are to be sent abroad to all parts of the world.

HOPEFUL SIGNS.—Truthfully says an exchange: Numerous improvements are being made in Portland, which renders times more lively, affords employment for workmen, and also helps the appearance of the place very materially. A new academy building is proposed, Estes' mill in the southern portion of the city is rapidly being completed, and when finished will afford employment for a large number of persons; cisterns have been repaired, many new and handsome residences erected, a fire alarm telegraph being put into working order and new stores contracted, besides street improvements and other things which indicate that our citizens are active and industrious and that no matter how dull it is elsewhere, Portland is improving daily in appearance, and that her business prospects for the year are favorable.

A FRUITLESS CHASE.—A few evenings since as several persons were slowly walking up Fourth street, they were startled by the loud cry of "stop thief." Soon after a man was seen running swiftly across the street toward the western part of the city. Pursuit was instantly made and the pursuers exerted themselves to their utmost in their endeavors to catch the fleeing person. The man, however, was too active, and after chasing him ten or fifteen blocks, the party returned to Fourth street, when it was found that he had been visiting at the house of a new formed friend, and while no person was observing, the rogue concealed some gold and silver valuables about his person, and soon after left the house. The inmates soon discovered their loss and started in pursuit, but as before stated were unable to capture the thief.

FOUND GUILTY.—Yesterday in the State circuit court, the case of W H. Baker, charged with the shooting and instant killing of Lee Stewart on the evening of the 2d of last April, came up for trial. At the conclusion of the evidence and argument by the counsel the jury retired for deliberation. The jury was out several hours, and at length returned with a verdict of guilty as charged in the indictment. Baker is charged with manslaughter. A motion for a new trial will probably be filed this morning.

RECOVERING.—Last week we mentioned that Capt Josiah Myrick had been taken suddenly and seriously ill at his quartz mine on Canyon creek, Baker county, Oregon. This was alarming news to his family and numerous friends here, and his wife and son started immediately to go to him. We are now happy to learn that he is entirely out of danger and rapidly recovering.

PUTTING UP THE WIRE.—Mr John Crouch assisted by several men is now engaged in putting up the wire about the city which will be used in the operation of the telegraph alarm system. Mr. Field is superintending the work. In a few days the wire will be put in position and within a week's time the whole system will be in operating condition.

PICNIC TO AURORA POSTPONED.—In consequence of the unsettled weather and wet state of the ground the committee having the picnic of the Unitarian Sunday-school in charge have decided to postpone till next Saturday June 26th. The tickets will hold good on that day.

OFFICERS ELECTED.—At a meeting of the Turn Verein last evening the following officers were elected, viz: Ludwig Levy President, F. Eller, Vice President; G Castendieck, Rec. Sec.; G Franz, Cor Sec; C A Alisky, Treas; P Wagner Warden.

BALL AND BAT.

Yesterday the deciding game of the series (for the championship of Marion county and a bat) was played at Salem between the College and Aldine clubs. The game commenced at 3 o'clock P M. AMUSEMENTS.

For weeks the theme of conversation among theater goers has been the Lingards and at last they have put in an appearance, the scene of the event being the New Market Theater. It was gratifying to see that beautiful temple of the drama so well filled. Not only was the seating capacity of the auditorium and boxes fully tested, but stools in the passage ways were occupied. The best class of our citizens were in attendance and judging from the reception accorded the well known artistes whose fame has preceded them it is fair to presume that the brief season will prove a great success. The programme consisted of the sparkling comedy of "Naval Engagements," in which W Horace Lingard and Miss Dickie Lingard, Mrs Phelps, Messrs Crowell, Barrows and Blake assumed the characters of the cast. Throughout this play the audience were kept in the best humor, the excellent acting of the Lingards leading the support into the spirit of the play. Lingard in his character sketches was immense. His changes were thorough, stage action perfect and movements graceful throughout. He is far superior to Vivian, who created a favorable impression while on his first visit. His impersonations of the late Horace Greeley, the Shah of Persia, King William, General Grant and others was perfectly surprising, particularly the change from King William to General Grant. He first appears showing the left side to the audience representing the former person and by a quick turn presents on the right side a profile of U S G. A light cigar is quickly adjusted and then we have a correct side representation of the President. Mr Lingard's sketches and statue representations won him great applause. Those who were present last evening expressed themselves highly delighted and astonished. His like has not been seen in Oregon. "A Day After the Wedding" concluded the entertainment, the last including Lingard, Alice Dunning (Lingard), Lizzie Morgan and Messrs Barrows and Crowell. Miss Dickie Lingard and Alice Dunning (Lingard) created a favorable impression by their personal attractions and graceful style of acting. Matinee at 2 P M and performance this evening. You must go early if you wish to obtain a seat. The Lingards and Mrs. Phelps and all connected with the reopening and management must feel elated over the success of the initial performance and the financial result therefrom.

PROCEEDINGS OF THE NOMINATING COMMITTEE.

The People's Nominating Committee communicated yesterday by telegraph with Mr H. D Sanborn, who is now absent from the city on business, apprising him of his nomination as assessor. Mr Sanborn in his answer to the committee stated that business engagements of an important nature will prevent his return to the city until after the time required by law for the qualification of city officers. He therefore declined the nomination tendered him for the reason mentioned. Last night the nominating committee reconsidered the matter and placed in nomination for city assessor Mr Andrew Hill.

REV. E. P. HAMMOND IN PORTLAND.

CHRISTIANS HARD AT WORK—OPEN AIR MEETINGS—INTEREST AT THE RINK INCREASING

The gathering at the Presbyterian church yesterday morning showed that the tide of battle was still onward and upward—that the Christian hosts are still eager and panting for the fray. The theme for these meetings still continues to be the conditions of prevailing prayer. Mr Hammond opened as usual with Bible reading, interspersed with comments, after which the meeting was thrown open for any one. Many availed themselves of the opportunity and all showed by the fervency and earnestness that pervaded their remarks that they were engaged heart and soul in the good work. The meeting was then opened for praise and 30 or 40 used about ten minutes in specifying some one thing for which they could praise God. Forty requests for prayer were handed in and read by Mr Hammond while the congregation bowed their heads in silent prayer, many of them the same though coming from different individuals. The following are a few of the requests. Prayer is earnestly requested for a dear brother unconverted, dissipated and far from home—the only one of a large family that are yet unsaved. Pray for my husband, son and son in law. Pray that I may be entirely consecrated to the work of the ministry. Pray for my sister also our two sons and a daughter and that we may be willing to work for the Master. Pray for a revival at Dalles City. Pray for two young men that feel the need of a new heart. Pray earnestly for two brothers and their families. Brethren pray that God may send His spirit to the heart of my wife and cause her to be converted. Pray for a young man given to strong drink. Mr Hammond will you not hold a meeting on Saturday night? many men cannot get out except on Saturday night—printers engaged on morning papers and others.

Immediately after the close of the meeting at the church a large number adjourned to the corner of Stark and Front streets and an open air meeting was inaugurated. An immense crowd gathered in a few moments entirely blocking the street. It was very brief but a good deal of fervor was thrown in for a few moments. During the afternoon prayer meetings were held in eight or ten different places in the city.

Last evening a large audience greeted the Evangelist at the rink. After some time spent in singing he read the 116th Psalm which he said in Scotland was called the young converts song. I recollect a young lady who wished to join the church. She applied to a Methodist minister who replied that he would take her for six months on probation. Not knowing the meaning of the word she burst into tears and said that she did not want to join for six months but for life. I do not like long prayers. Short prayers, with a real live request to God in it are the ones that are acceptable. If Peter when sinking had made as long a prayer as some Christians do he would have sunk under forty feet of water before he got through. About ten minutes were taken up in reading and a running fire of comments like the above. Then prayer followed by a hymn.

Rev Mr Baker of Oakland Cal superintendent of the Baptist Sunday schools for the Pacific coast was introduced to the audience. Mr Baker read the 14th verse of the 4th chapter of John. He made a few general remarks and bore strong testimony to the efficiency of Mr Hammond's work in San Francisco and more especially in Oakland also to his work in Bloomington some years ago. There the Christians took right hold of the work the second night and it was wonderful to see how the spirit of God took. Like the woman of Samaria they all became preachers of the word from the start. There ought to be an impression go out from this meeting that will be felt throughout the State and there will if you but do your duty.

Mr Bentley read a letter from Mrs H V Stitzel recounting the labors of Mr Hammond in Topeka four years ago and the wonderful results that accrued therefrom. Mr Hammond then stepped to the front and said that he had been delaying his sermon that he might study his audience. "I would like to speak words of love and kindness that would appeal direct to the heart but from the carelessness and indifference that seemed to prevail among some portions of the audience I must speak in plain forcible language and try and convince you of the fact that you are in a state of moral death and foully tainted with the leprosy of sin." His text was from Second Kings 5:13 "Wash and be clean." He divided his sermon into three parts:

1st The leprosy of Naaman.

2d The great efforts he was willing to make in order that he might be cleansed.

3d The quickness of the cure when the conditions required were fulfilled.

Mr Hammond spoke for about forty minutes after which he requested all persons who believed their sins were pardoned to rise up and remain standing. Then those who would like to be and were willing to try and seek pardon for their sins. A third request was made that all who were willing Christians should pray for them to rise. In the three classes enumerated above at least nine-tenths of the audience were on their feet. Prayer was then held standing, after which active individual efforts were made with the unconverted.

Mrs Bentley sang Tennyson's "Too Late" in a most impressive manner; the silence and attention of the audience were so close as to be almost oppressive.

Morning meeting at the Presbyterian Church at 8:30. Children's meeting at the Rink 7 P M. Sunday evening a sermon will be preached to the sporting men and women of the city.

CONGREGATIONAL ASSOCIATION OF OREGON.

Second Day.

At 2 o'clock P M the meeting was called to order by the moderator.

Rev P S Knight, A B Cosper and Mrs G H Collier were appointed a committee on religious exercises and Rev W R Stewart of the Presbyterian church of this city and Rev A Jones of the Baptist church were invited to sit as corresponding members.

Until 3:30 the time was occupied in discussing foreign missions. Rev one of Oregon's veteran missionaries Rev J Walker who spoke of Christ's command "Go ye into all the world and preach the gospel" and that all are to go either in person or by the use of the means in prayer. He stated that he looked back on his work among the Indians of this county with more satisfaction than all the rest of his work. As he grows older he seems to throw more vigorous feeling into his remarks on this subject.

Mention was also made of the conversion of a large number of the Spokane Indians during the last two years the result of work expended thirty years ago and that those who sowed the seed now felt amply repaid for their labor and waiting. The breaking up of heathen Fahn and the work of Livingstone in Africa was spoken of as an answer to the question often asked: What have missions done?

From 3:30 until 5 o'clock the meeting was occupied in discussing the work of the American missionary association led by Rev J L Eaton who spoke of the difficulties of the work among the Freedmen and that they had failed to become Congregationalists because of their peculiar emotional character.

Prof Condon and Collier thought that if this is so Congregationalism ought to change enough to adapt itself to their character.

Mr Eells spoke of the work among the Indians on the Skokomish reservation which is under the charge of this association that it is largely encouraging in civilizing them in temperance and religious work but that there was some Indian left in them as occasionally they would get on a big mad and act tantrums.

Dr Atkinson spoke of the work among the Chinese and that much of the recent success of this work in Portland was due to seed sown before the fire two years ago and by some thought to be burnt up in it.

Mr Ells thought that we ought to live practical Christian lives in our dealings with them, and not drive hard bargains and that Americans ought to set the example by becoming Christians.

Professors Condon and Collier spoke of the Japanese especially the students in this country that they were glad to receive the benefits of our civilization and were urging their friends to come here for an education and that one of the students at Forest Grove had become a Christian.

These meetings partook largely of the devotional spirit, and many prayers were offered for the various branches of Christian work.

In the evening the associational sermon was preached by Rev J D Eaton which was very plain and practical in regard to the faithfulness of Christian ministers, their dangers and the means of guarding against them.

FRIDAY MORNING

Rev P C Hetzler agent of the Bible society, Rev H W Stratton of the Presbyterian and Congregational churches in Albany and Deacon C F Lacey of El Dorado were invited to sit as corresponding members.

Dr Atkinson, agent of the Oregon Home Missionary Society reported that he had traveled 6,300 miles in his work, had preached 112 times and had attended 239 other meetings, preaching regularly at eight different places and irregularly at six others, having a general oversight of eight churches which have no pastors. Several new Sabbath schools had been organized. In the course of the report it came out that in Oregon there were, three years ago 220 churches or one to every 454 persons and in Washington Territory 47 churches, or one to every 500 inhabitants. Two hundred and twenty two dollars had been received by the society during the year.

Rev P S Knight read an essay on the "Condition of Church Membership" which was discussed with much earnestness, the Rev Mr Condon and Rev. Mr Eells thinking that the creed ought to be broad enough so that all Christians might be received and Rev Mr Knight and Rev Mr Butcher thinking that there ought to be some secondary considerations for receiving members.

Rev Mr Eells read an essay on "Systematic Benevolence," and discussion most expressed the opinion that the system of weekly giving is very necessary, as given down by Paul, that all lay by as God hath prospered them on the first day of every week.

AT THE GREAT EASTERN CLOTHING STORE they are offering the finest Clothing to be found in the city at prices that defy competition. There you can select from the latest styles which are laid in upon the arrival of every steamer from San Francisco. A full line of Furnishing Goods, Youths Suits, Valises and Trunks constantly on hand. Observe the sign, Great Eastern Clothing Store. W HARRIS, Proprietor, 125 First street.

NOTICE TO THE LADIES.

The railroad war and other events that have occupied the attention of the public for days past were nothing as compared with the excitement created by BECK & WALDMAN, the well known Clothiers who are selling their Summer Stock of Clothing, Men and Boys wear at fearfully low prices. Before making a purchase step into their place and see what they can do for you. The stock of furnishing goods at this house is complete.

Big Bonanzas are all very well in their way but that popular dealer in Clothing JOS KOHN opposite the National Bank is content to serve his many patrons and the public in general with the very latest goods in his line and to give the purchaser the benefit of low prices during the dull times. His stock of Clothing, Furnishing Goods etc was never more complete. You will never regret your purchases at Kohn's. Call to day.

COLD LUNCHES.—The oyster season having closed WALLER & SON, Oak street, between First and Second will serve hare Lunches to their patrons at all hours. The OXFORD SALAD DRESSING their own preparation is meeting with great favor. Try it.

The above expression is peculiarly applicable to the individual whose system has been renovated by Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. If any man or woman in this community has a friend suffering from the various pangs which indigestion, nervous disease, weak back or kidney trouble can inflict, the most rational advice he or she can give is—procure the Bitters at once and use them regularly. If this advice is heeded we guarantee that in a short time the invalid will feel as good as new, so marked and so rapid will be the change for the better wrought by this peerless invigorant, nervine and diuretic. It not only re-establishes digestion and stimulates the organs of urination into healthful activity but expels by the natural outlets of the body those acrid elements in the secretions which when absorbed into the blood produce rheumatism, gout and neuralgia. Moreover its gentle though effectual action admirably fits it for the use of females in delicate health who require a tonic stimulant and corrective.

BY STATE TELEGRAPH.

Fire at the Oregon City Woolen Mills.

OREGON CITY June 18—At about 5:20 this afternoon a fire broke out in the wool picking house in the rear of the woolen mill. The fire caught from the picker and spread with such rapidity that for a while it was thought it would be impossible to save the main factory building and dye and wool houses adjoining. The fire companies were quickly on hand and together with the mills hands and citizens soon had the flames under control. The loss is from $4000 to $5000, insured for probably the full amount.

SATURDAY MORNING, JUNE 19, 1875.

THE PSALM-BOOK IN THE GARRET.

BY BENJAMIN F. TAYLOR.

A garret grows a human thing
 With lonely oriental eyes,
To whom confiding fingers bring
 The world in yesterday's disguise.

Ah, richer far than noontide blaze
 The soft grey silence of the air,
As if long years of ended days
 Had garnered all their twilights there.

The heart can see so clear and far
 In such a place with such a light—
God counts His heavens star by star,
 And rains them down unclouded night.

Where rafters set their cobweb'd feet
 Upon the rugged oaken ledge,
I found a flock of singers sweet,
 Like snow-bound sparrows in a hedge.

In silk of spider's spinning hid,
 A long and narrow Psalm-book lay;
I wrote a name upon the lid,
 Then brushed the idle dust away.

Ah, dotted tribe with ebon heads
 That climb the slender fence along!
As black as ink, as thick as weeds,
 Ye little Africans of song!

Who wrote upon this page "Forget
 Me Not?" These cruel leaves of old
Have crushed to death a violet—
 See here its specter's pallid gold.

A pencilled whisper during prayer
 Is that poor dim and girlish word,
But ah, I linger longest where
 It opens of its own accord.

These spotted leaves! How they once basked
 Beneath the glance of girlhood's eyes,
And parted to the gaze unasked,
 As spread the wings of butterflies.

The book falls open where it will—
 Broad on the page runs Silver Street!
That shining way to Zion's Hill
 Where base and treble used to meet.

I shake the leaves. They part at Mear—
 Again they strike the good old tune;
The village church is builded here;
 The twilight turns to afternoon.

Old house of Puritanic wood,
 Through whose unpainted windows streamed
On seats as primitive and rude
 As Jacob's pillow when he dreamed.

The white and undiluted day!
 Thy naked aisle no roses grace
That blossomed at the shuttle's play;
 Nor saints distempered bless the place.

Like feudal castles, front to front,
 In timbered oak of Saxon Thor,
To brave the siege and bear the brunt
 Of Bunyan's endless Holy War.

The pulpit and the gallery stand—
 Between the twain a peaceful space,
The prayer and praise on either hand,
 And girls and Gospel face to face.

I hear the reverend Elder say,
 "Hymn fifty-first; long meter, sing!"
I hear the Psalm-books fluttered play
 Like flocks of sparrows taking wing.

Armed with a fork to pitch the tune,
 I hear the Deacon call "Dundee!"
And mount as brisk as Bonny Doon
 His "fa, sol, la," and scent the key.

He "trees" the note for sister Gray;
 The old Scotch warbling strains begin;
The base of Bashan leads the way,
 And all the girls fall sweetly in.

How swells the hymn of heavenly love,
 As rise the tides in Fundy's Bay!
Till all the air below, above,
 Is sweet with song and caraway!

A fugue let loose cheers up the place
 With base and tenor, alto, air;
The parts strike in with measured grace,
 And something sweet is everywhere!

As if some warbling brood should build
 Of bits of tunes a single nest,
Each bringing that with which it thrilled
 And weaving it with all the rest!

The congregation rise and stand:
 Old Hundred's rolling thunder comes
In heavy surges, slow and grand,
 As beats the surf its solemn drums.

Now come the times when China's wall
 Is blended with the faint perfume
Of whispering crape and cloudy veil,
 That fold within their rustling gloom

Some wounded human mourning dove,
 And fall around some stricken one
With nothing left alive to love
 Below the unregarded sun!

And now they sing a star in sight,
 The blessed star of Bethlehem;
And now the air is royal bright
 With Coronation's diadem.

They show me spots of dimpled sod,
 They say the girls of old are there—
Oh, no, they swell the choirs of God;
 The dear old Songs are everywhere!

EVE IN A MILL.

HOW A LADY WAS QUICKLY UNDRESSED BY MACHINERY.

[From the St. Louis Republican.]

The element of curiosity which prevails in the minds of the ladies as a heritage from Mrs. Adam still gets them into trouble occasionally. Notably was the fact illustrated the other day in Westmoreland county, Pa. There is a mill in Westmoreland county where the machinery is of a very fine class indeed, and visitors of a practical turn of mind find themselves amply repaid for an examination of the works. Among the recent visitors to the mill was a lady who had just as much curiosity as the men concerning the great wheels and the hoppers and the appliances for transforming wheat into flour and feed. It made no difference to her that she probably couldn't understand the thing; she wanted to make just as close an examination as the men did and to form an acquaintance with all the mysteries of milling. So they showed her through the mill, and she was very much delighted and evinced just as lively an interest in the machinery as though she had been Robert Fulton or George Stephenson, or any one of the great inventors. She was not satisfied with any cursory view of things, either, but went up close to the wheels, notwithstanding the repeated warnings of the miller. Finally she approached the bolting machine and proceeded to inspect it with a critical eye. Very close to the machine she stepped, and then two cog-wheels took

A LITTLE NIP AT HER DRESS.

The wheel appeared delighted with the flavor, and took in more and more, having a good mouthful before the lady noted her predicament. Then she screamed and tried to get away, but the rapacious cogs were not to be cheated of a meal, and kept on chewing, every mouthful drawing the fated woman closer to the works. The miller saw the danger and sprang to the rescue of the frightened victim. There was but one course to pursue. He was a huge, brawny man, and, clasping the shrieking woman in his arms, he braced his feet against an upright post and pulled. It was a contest between the man and the bolting machine; mind and muscle on one side, hungry iron and steel upon the other. Mind and muscle won, but not without a catastrophe. There was a long pull and a strong pull and a pull altogether, and then by one gigantic effort the miller bore the woman clear, and that was all. He saved the statue; the machine got all the drapery. The lady was unhurt, but also unclothed. She stood there like

THE GREEK SLAVE UNSHACKLED,

And the lookers-on ran out for feeling's sake. There was any amount of bustle about the mill but not a particle of bustle about the woman—the bolting machine had that. Had there been present three or four more ladies similarly showing, one might have sworn it had been raining angels. The rescued lady stood shuddering and blushing and her rescuer stood panting and blushing. There was a moment or two of awful embarrassment. Then the miller solved the problem. He fled from the mill and sought his wife and sent her back with a bundle of clothing. She soon arrived upon the scene, and the dismantled woman was arrayed again, though perhaps not quite so gaudily as previous to her little affair with the bolting machine. She has dropped the study of mechanics, and the miller passes his time between dreaming of a vision and wondering when his customers will begin to complain of a white-linen taste in their flour.

General Joe Hooker has spoken on the subject of General Sherman's memoirs. He takes no stock in either Sherman or Grant, but believes that Thomas was the military genius of the war.

If Seth Green is right, you can take your wife fishing with you. He says fishes are not frightened by talking; they have no sense of hearing.

Our latest advices from Liverpool give the wheat market at that point at 8s 10d@9s 1d for average California, and club at 9s 10d@9s 1d per cental.

In no essential features is our local money market changed, the general tendency being toward an accumulation of surplus for loans, but no indication that it will become large or that an anywise early day will witness a material reduction on present rates.

By our telegrams from the East it will be seen that gold is still going up, and is now as high as at any time before for many months. The cause assigned is the heavy demand for shipment to Europe and the requirements of the government in calling in its bonds.

In local trade no fluctuations are noticed to-day though there is tendency in some lines of staple merchandise to greater firmness and an advance in a few articles is anticipated. Dry goods are still low and the margins this season have been small on that class. Groceries are firm as a rule, with no marked change in prices for some weeks past. During the entire week now closing domestic produce has been received in less than average quantities and in some articles there is less than the usual amount in the market.

It is reported that the Salem Flouring Mills Company now loading the ship City of Vienna at this port, have sold her cargo at a fair figure. The vessel will carry about 1700 tons and is to be loaded entirely with flour which we believe has all been secured.

Latest Crop Reports.

Our exchanges from the various parts of this State all agree that the prospects for the wheat crop are steadily growing better, and it seems highly probable now that we shall have not any less than 150,000 tons of wheat for export the coming harvest year, though this estimate may be reduced by heavy rains late in the summer. The recent showers have greatly improved the appearance of the late sown grain crops, both wheat and oats.

The latest reports from California indicated an improvement there also, but it is not now considered that that State will have anything like an average yield. Year before last California had a surplus of 700,000 tons, and last year 500,000 tons. This year the acreage is larger than ever before, but the yield will be small, and, while she may have as much as in 1874, it is more likely to be less than more.

While the damage from grasshoppers, locusts and the winter-kill in some of the Mississippi valley has been very considerable, enough to at least affect the market, it is now said to be not anything like so extensive as was at an earlier date greatly feared.

The reports of the weather and the crops in the British Isles and on Continental Europe have been generally of a favorable character for the coming harvest.

In middle May in France, although drought was here and there occasionally complained of, the crop reports were generally favorable for an abundant harvest. The weather in the region about Paris during the first two weeks in May had been the finest possible, such as the farmers most desired, and the condition of the wheat plant was generally excellent and satisfactory, which had augmented the farmers' deliveries.

Mail advices from Germany give the most brilliant accounts of the effect of the fine weather the first two weeks in May on vegetation.

At Galatz, Roumania, by mail advices of the 11th of May last, the weather had been favorable during the first two weeks in May for the growing crops, of which there were generally favorable accounts. There had been abundant rain falls.

The wheat crop of Egypt will be harvested during the present month, and wheat will be soon in condition for export from that country.

A large fleet of ships and steamers were at latest advices at Odessa awaiting grain cargoes, mostly wheat.

Ayer's Cathartic Pills,

For all the purposes of a Family Physic,

CURING

Costiveness, Jaundice, Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Dysentery, Gout, Stomach and Breath, Erysipelas, Headache, Piles, Rheumatism, Eruptions and Skin Diseases, Biliousness, Liver Complaint, Dropsy, Tetter, Tumors and Salt Rheum, Worms, Gout, Neuralgia, as a Dinner Pill, and Purifying the Blood, are the most congenial purgative yet perfected. Their effects abundantly show how much they excel all other Pills. They are safe and pleasant to take, but powerful to cure. They purge out the foul humors of the blood; they stimulate the sluggish or disordered organ into action; and they impart health and tone to the whole being. They cure not only the every day complaints of every body, but formidable and dangerous diseases. Most skillful physicians, most eminent clergymen, and our best citizens, send certificates of cures performed and of great benefit they have derived from these Pills. They are the safest and best physic for children, because mild as well as effectual. Being sugar coated, they are easy to take; and being purely vegetable, they are entirely harmless.

Ayer's Ague Cure.

FOR THE SPEEDY RELIEF OF

Fever and Ague, Intermittent Fever, Chill Fever, Remittent Fever, Dumb Ague, Periodical or Bilious Fever, &c., and indeed all the affections which arise from malarious, marsh, or miasmatic poisons.

Has been widely used during the last twenty-five years, in the treatment of these distressing diseases, and with such unvarying success that it has gained the reputation of being infallible. The shakes, or chills, once broken by it, do not return, until the disease is contracted again. This has made it an accepted remedy, and trusted specific, for the Fever and Ague of the West, and the Chills and Fever of the South.

Ayers' Ague Cure eradicates the noxious poison from the system, and leaves the patient as well as before the attack. It thoroughly expels the disease, so that no Liver Complaints, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Dysentery or Debility follow the cure. Indeed, where Disorders of the Liver and Bowels have occurred from Miasmatic Poison, it removes the cause of them and they disappear. Not only is it an effectual cure, but if taken occasionally by patients exposed to malaria it will expel the poison and protect them from attack. Travelers and temporary residents in Fever and Ague localities are thus enabled to defy the disease. The General Debility which is so apt to ensue from continued exposure to Malaria and Miasm, has no speedier remedy.

For Liver Complaints, it is an excellent remedy.
